BACKGROUND

Nimbusfire Africa saw the need to promote two products in Africa - a Rapid Intervention Vehicle and a water atomizing system. It was obvious to the directors and the board that there was a need for better efficient water technologies in firefighting in this country. The conventional systems in use were, in our opinion, not sustainable as they require large amounts of water which is not always readily available.

Most of the fire engines were seen to be too large to access many fire incidents especially in informal settlements.

The directors felt it was time to bring new and sustainable technology in firefighting to Kenya and Africa. A partnership was formed with Nimbusfire U.K, which has introduced to the market state of the art products.

-Nimbusfire Africa are now active stakeholders of the NDMU formed in October 2013 on the command of President Uhuru Kenyatta.

It is our aim to assist all the Counties, Real Estate sector and Educational departments by promoting disaster management and sensitization through schools and colleges giving the young people of Kenya a better knowledge of fire awareness and preparedness as this is where it all begins.

Nimbusfire Africa will be an active member throughout Kenya with the Nimbusfire RIV fighting fires and demonstrating the efficiency of water misting over conventional firefighting techniques.

The Nimbus firefighting pumps have many uses from stand alone to mobile and fully fledged firefighting in their own rights.

Nimbus Safari Lite is designed for industry and domestic firefighting. Working at 250 bar pressure using only 16 litres of water per minute.

Nimbus Fire 300 bar is designed for dense peat, wild fire and bush fires using 30 litres of water per minute. This pump also has the ability to cut through concrete and even metal where there is a danger of Flashover which might maim or seriously injure firefighters should they open a door or window. This pump allows them to fill the room with water mist from outside and put out the fire.

We believe the Nimbus misting system will be a valuable aid to fire departments giving them the chance to get to and engage the fire in minimal amount of time. This is likely to save many more lives and much more property saving the country billions of Ksh over the ensuing years.
